

MTT WEDNESDAY 1 JULY

Speaker 1

So, Brad won't be with us today. I believe he is quite migraine-y, as is the way. But yeah, just for context, Brad and I used to live here, and this is where we did all BU stuff, so like Broadway and flag rehearsals. That's awesome. So how did you and Brad meet? Uh, just at a random club, like, 10 years ago. That's awesome. Yeah, and then we just sort of felt like we knew each other and then he was doing theater and um at Melbourne Uni and then I was sort of I had done some shows and um I had been burnt already I was like oh this is horrible um and then just having to theater but um no community and then uh yeah and then he sort of forced me to do some more shows he's like come do Tommy and I was like ah you know and then he signed up the form

Speaker 2

I was talking to my friend about this the other day and she was like, oh, he definitely did my, um, did, he accompanied me for my Wobble audition or something.

Speaker 1

Oh, cute.

Speaker 2

Yeah.

Speaker 1

Do you remember who? Oh, sorry, you know who? Yeah, Sarah Branson. Do you remember her? Do you, when was this? It would have been years ago. Yeah, yeah. Yeah, she was like, he was so young. I was so young.

Speaker 2

So young and full of, full of him. Yeah, what year was that, Becna? I think she graduated in 2019. Oh, lovely. So three years before my first. Yeah, right.

Speaker 1

I was just at the end of my AIM course at that time. Yeah. I have such a bad memory. Yeah, me too. Like, really bad. And so people are like, you're playing for my audition. And I'm like... Did I? I'm like, I'm happy. I'm so attached to them. So today's pretty loose secrecy. As you can probably tell. Usually, so last year we did it in front of like TV screen and I'd go through a presentation and but this time around I've been trying to film the stuff, maybe because I wasn't free, but also because you can watch it and then I don't have to repeat myself wise. I'm trying to notoriously bad. And I'm recording just in case anything gets missed or we can fill in some details and stuff. So give me two seconds. Start by acknowledging that we're on the war on jury land. Pay my respects to Alice Paston person. So thank you for being here. Let's just start, like, you know, questions, queries, reflections on the videos you've watched. What's working for you, what's not working for you. Is there a video? No.

Speaker 3

Oh, oh. Sorry, I just... You're a bad person.

Speaker 1

Optimate information. So, yeah. Feel free to monitor doors and let me know if people are waiting. Yeah, shoes are optional. Yeah, what have you got now of the stuff so far?

Speaker 3

I think for me, I don't know, but you guys could like watching everything and reading all the details. I still have like a sudden like nervousness around cuts because I have a lack of knowledge in music terms. That's something I'm thinking of. And like even I was like looking back through my book and it's funny that my very back page is like from my senior teacher during uni. we were doing all the basic stuff, even just what a crush looks like, all the basic, this equals this, this, 'cause I have to, I don't know, I just feel a bit behind all the information. So reading it, I'm like, "Yeah, got it." But I feel like I don't. Anyway, that's just a personal deep reflection.

Speaker 1

You got it, but don't have it, so I think.

Speaker 3

Yeah, and so when it comes to like, I started getting better at the end of third year just being like, "I'm gonna do my own cut," without asking someone. That was a really big deal for me. like I always have to like okay I think I can do this because I think it just makes sense to just cut it halfway or like I know I can just go from this point to the end and so like I mean that's kind of just like easy. It's okay, easy is good. Yeah but if it came to something that was like and that's why I like your point on like not making things clunky or chaotic nervous and what you used to do that word but there was a trauma from one cut and it just didn't work like it would change case three times and I took it to like the head of our empty department like he tried to like help me like cut it and like it just was like anyway I really appreciated all the information I'm just still on the journey of it all but I think obviously I didn't go over it all over again like kind of slightly like and it's so great it's all right yeah just But some of it resonates and some of it, I think, I mean, that was one of the first things you guys mentioned in a session about the 16 bar thing. You need to apply that in terms of like, it doesn't have to be 16 bar.

Speaker 1

You really, when you really break it down, it doesn't make sense to just cut things into 16 bars. Because bars are an arbitrary measurement. Yeah. So it doesn't make sense. People are just a bit lazy with the nomenclature.

Speaker 3

How you said it made sense.

Speaker 1

Yeah.

Speaker 3

I was like, yes.

Speaker 1

There's gotta be time, right? So okay, so there's like there's sort of some things hovering around around music theory around seminology. Theory! Yeah, sorry. Which we can we can chat more about, certainly not the point, you don't need to know about it at all. It's nice if you want to know more about it. There's some stuff around like cuts and like the complexity and learning to keep it simple, you know, so maybe just orientate around that and then finding more confidence to create your own cuts you know because there's no consequence you know just give a try and see what happens yeah I just think about how there is this pressure because every time I try to do it and I take it to someone I just feel like I haven't got the arc of it you know yeah it's like every fifth grade there one else to do their business on the fence thing but like I just find that they come out and they're like I've got this and it's the best cut ever and it goes to years a year to year and I'm like well it's just so complicated and it becomes this anyway it's the voices in my brain um this becomes this like this this mental thing that that if you get when i'm on the other side and they're going hey can you help me and i'm like yeah i want to help and then we get meshed in this like weird mental game of like yeah i'm gonna try and make it work and yeah what's gonna happen here and then we're trying to create something then it's like by the time we output it it's like it's a bit chaotic and the whole arc thing we can definitely diffuse that we can just go into a song sing what you need to sing and the arc is just a bit of an illusion really when you said that on the thing it was like the first time someone said that yeah

Speaker 3

Speaker 1

Speaker 4

and so you set a cup in like no you have to have a story out and all these it's how much can you

Speaker 3

keep of what the songs the full songs trying to say in your yeah you too yeah it's um

Speaker 1

just trying to think of the opposite of that how much can you take out of this song so it makes absolutely no sense whatsoever you know like it's pretty hard to do yeah um and often i find that when people are tending to do like contemporary mt songs they're trying to trim those down and like I just find that those songs tend to get like I'll do it at the beginning and it's kind of like a clavace and then we get into the tune and then I'm gonna jump to the end belt and then it's like I'd be like well it's just a bit crazy so anyway um no you just sing a chunk get as much story as you can um you know as long as you're not jumping around erratically like someone's watching you're kind of like I don't remember what's happening What do you mean jumping around like jumping around from one sentence one half a verse to a second verse?

Speaker 2

I do have a cut that I have done in the past of a song that does take it's it's pretty like chopped up and I guess I yeah That's one that I wanted to talk about because I love the song and I want to sing the song but I don't know how to make the context work and I don't know if the actual song is too chopped up but I tried it just felt like the only way to make the song work. That's fine. What's the song? Who I Me from Shrek. Oh cute. Because obviously it's not a femme song usually but I want to sing it. You want what? I want to sing it. You want to sing it?

Speaker 1

Yeah I want to sing it. Have you changed the key? I'm curious. There's two lanes here. There's practical and then there's artistic. So like I'm always kind of like I'm always a fan of the practical. I just want it to work. Practically, logistically.

Speaker 2

It makes the artistic easier.

Speaker 1

Yeah, theory. You know, it makes the The mechanics of the audition just a bit easier. It's less to worry about. Less like Just because sometimes you know we can create like mental blocks in our brain if there's if there's something jumps around a lot There's page terms to consider this key changes to consider There's all sorts of just anomalies that of course these are not like hard and fast rules You know you just do best with what you can if you've created something And it's a masterpiece and you feel confident with the time bonus Bonus points if you get someone to transcribe Actually is just blatant Notated 16:30 cut which is a service that people offer. Someone asked me to do one the other day, but I just can't feel like doing it. But, you know, if you ask nicely, you know, it's a bit like, I'll do the backing track, but like, can you note any of it? And I'm sorry. Anyway, I'll hold that for a moment, and we'll see if I can delve into it. What do you say?

Speaker 4

I found it, I think, and again, I think it's just one of those things that like, whopper engranded me. Like, when it's like, music notes being the go-to place, because I feel like they're so anti-music notes because so many times the piano part will just be playing the melody. So they'd always be like, go to the piano vocal score first before anything else. But sometimes you just can't find that. So I feel like it's just... I think they were unnecessarily anti-music notes because there's some things you literally just can't find and as long as you know how to read the music and check that it's not just playing the melody.

Speaker 1

yeah do you have a song in front of you no um i'm just curious yeah but and then i think there's something else oh okay but like i think i don't know where it was talking about having like giving yourself a bit more of an intro sometimes because again i think we're used to being like no you just get in as soon as you can like if you just need one bus great like yeah i don't think Yeah, so i think that was the main thing that i was like, interesting.

Speaker 4

Speaker 1

What did i say? Do you remember?

Speaker 4

I think it was just that it can help you to drop into it a bit more if you give yourself, rather than coming straight in and then all of a sudden it's just a bit chaotic and you're like, okay, here we go.

Speaker 1

Yeah, yeah, yeah. So i feel like i was intending to talk more on that. Some people give themselves too much of an intro.

Speaker 4

Yeah, because i think i see so much of that. that i've now like swung the complete opposite way. Yeah, you can find, every song's gonna be different, right?

Speaker 1

Yeah. Yeah, yeah. i've like, there are many times where i'm playing in an audition and i've asked the auditionee, can we cut this intro down? Mm. And it's risky for me to ask, 'cause they're scared shitless and they're prepared. Yeah. So if i detect it, i'm like, then i'm like, it's fine, we'll get the intro, it's all good. But sometimes it's like eight bars and i'm like, we don't need that, i just sing the song.

Speaker 4

Not here, i found it. Like, yeah, how a short intro might feel awkward to bring the vocal in on. There's nothing stopping you from starting it right on the vocal, but you have to be confident.

Speaker 1

Is that what i said? Yeah. Cool. Starting at the same time. The boy you know. So the thing there is that sometimes we feel we need to put an intro on, right? And i may have not phrased it properly. And it's about telling people, and maybe you're actually really good at this then, But it's about people understanding that you can just drop into the song if you want to. Yeah. You know? But with that comes, like, it kind of connects to branding and presentation and who you are. As in, are you confident to do that? To just go and go get a note and start singing and bring your confidence in. Without counting, that's weird. Yeah. Don't count. Oh, very fun. but that's you know it's just it's so strange because they don't do it there's like all I need is a breath anyway as an accompanist all I need is breath and it doesn't and then while I'm doing this the bit that you talked about if you can't finish on a result or record that finishes nicely that's fine yeah yeah like there was my showcase piece last year was maybe I like it this way from the wild party oh that doesn't really and it doesn't it doesn't end And because each piece kind of went into each other, he had to pretty much, like, even in terms of, I had to be careful with, like, what, gesture I did or something at the end because it was like, otherwise the audience won't. Unless they know the song, they won't know to clap.

Speaker 1

They won't know to clap.

Speaker 4

Yeah, they won't know that it's over because it doesn't resolve. Yeah. So I feel like it was, I think one of our shows, the shows where it was, like, less of an empty crowd and more family. Yeah. They didn't really start clapping until the next person's song started playing and I'm leaving and they...

Speaker 1

I thought you could have put an end on that. Yeah. I think there's a fake ending on music nights. I think someone's staged or not. Anyway, so the whole melody in the accompaniment thing, absolutely. It's like you can pick the piano conductor. Amazing. Hello, hello, hello.

Speaker 5

Hey, I'm actually right here.

Speaker 1

I was like... You can say it probably the same one. Yeah, I already do the end of this one and the beginning of this one. Yeah, let's do it.

Speaker 5

It's mostly just discussion-led anyway. Okay, cool. And Trump loves it too much.

Speaker 1

You guys work here. You're like...

Speaker 3

I'm not content with this. I'm terrible in America.

Speaker 1

Welcome, welcome. We're just doing... This is really discussion-based, by the way, so you can just jump in when you can. It's a bit different to how we used to do it because last year I'd been in front of a TV running presentation, so the TV took up half the room, so this is much better. Anyway, most accompanists are smart enough to not play the melody in the sheet music, you know, if you're asked for it. And then some genres actually want you to play the melody, like a lot of 40s, 30s, 40s stuff. That's going to have the melody in it, because that's just the style of the piece. So it's actually really important you know with the melody of repertoire like that. Otherwise it's very explosive if you sort of screw it up. If you can use piano conductors, great. If they're handwritten, try to avoid them. So typeset is when they're computerized and that's what you want to do generally. But handwritten, so many people come from uni and they're like, particularly ECA as well, it's just like they'll be like, "I've got this score!" You know, it's all like, you know, because I did it in acting through song and it's got some sort of like intense acting moment about it but it's all handwritten and it's a bit like what's happening just sing a tune you know like anyway so thank you for those reflections yeah a bit on intros how about yourself any curious feelings sort of like the same stuff about the cut because like I want to show Vitted and this is like a long audition like every two weeks yes but it wasn't about really it being super short, being like a 16-month-old It would be like a minute and a half and you need to have a story

Speaker 5

Speaker 4

Yes, that was our Mocha auditions last year, like every few weeks and it would be minute cuts

Speaker 1

And then you had who was taking those? Maddie Frank Yeah, but there would be some people on the panel.

Speaker 5

Oh, it would just be, it would be, yeah, it would be Matt and Kevin talking. Yeah. And then, yeah, like, I would get, like, the first, like, few weeks in the course, I would be the longer as being, like, my class is short. Oh, really? Yeah.

Speaker 1

I feel like, from my experience, because I've played for some of those classes, they tend to be, like, half acting through song and half mock audition. They don't quite know what they are. so you get this mock audition that really you probably end up getting some acting feedback by the end of it yeah like like you know what are you thinking here what's happening here okay what was that transition there and what are you thinking there and now we're traveling to this there which is all good but like that's why generally you'll have an acting through some dedicated class where you actually do the whole song um so i think it's trying to do two things and of course probably if you ended up singing something really short, you wouldn't actually have a lot to feedback on from a teaching perspective. Whereas my philosophy, which is kind of irrelevant, but like, if a mock audition class should be practicing the art of auditioning, that should be the essence of the class. It shouldn't be about your song at all. You know, you need to actually practice doing the act of auditioning, which is walking in, putting the thing on, doing the random short fit slave that I know that they're very specific about and those things have changed but um they're not you don't have to go to the center

Speaker 5

Speaker 1

Speaker 5

Speaker 1

hi my name is da da da how are you sure I just feel like they would like you didn't say it like if there's at the end

Speaker 5

that's good

Speaker 1

okay good good good good um how about you such yes any thoughts feelings yeah I think trying to cut it down to 30 seconds or like you know 16 bars like even like just the last part of the song I'm like that's still a minute. That's what I'm cutting too. I'm like, can I actually cut this? In my dreams, yeah. Yeah, like, that's like 50 seconds.

Speaker 2

Speaker 5

Out, where from?

Speaker 2

From just the last forest. And just like, you know, two bars going in as a little intro kind of thing. So I cut it out. I was just playing around with it and I cut it out. Just like two parts that look quite similar.

Speaker 6

Speaker 1

Yeah, okay.

Speaker 6

Just trying to, but I'm like, is that then making it a bit...

Speaker 1

You can have a look. Cut paste? Yeah, you can have a look. Yeah.

Speaker 5

Yeah. It's kind of where I was getting a bit stuck. Yeah. But I think some cuts, some songs work better as they're shorter cuts. Yeah, yeah, yeah.

Speaker 4

And some work better as a minute.

Speaker 1

Yeah. That kind of thing.

Speaker 4

Especially when you have a long note at the end, it's like, well, that's 15 seconds. Like, 15 seconds.

Speaker 1

If you got it and that's what you want to showcase, that's great. And with the whole pains and gains thing, it's like the whole rationale is like if I sing a bit shorter, I give them a bit more time. You know, if I sing a little shorter, I may have the opportunity to sing something else. You know, but it's not gospel. And we're happy to say that, you know, you don't have to go in and just do 30 seconds. I mean, right. Right, we'll say it, I'll say it. But at the end of the day, There's no like, you know, Bible on it. 30 to 45 seconds. And I'll always say like, if you're going to push past 45 seconds, you know, it'd be freaking worth it. Like if you're hitting the minute, I'd be like, if you're getting 50 seconds, sure, I'll buy it. You know? But if you're getting right on the minute, there's a bit of faffing around. You've got to walk and you've got to hold the thing at the end. You know, it's all little padding, you know?

Speaker 2

Whereas like another song that I love, cutting it down and kind of getting rid of, and they hit a bit of something up, I was like, this is so much better. It's better, is it? Yeah. What song was that? I want to go to Hollywood from the Grand Hotel. There's a lot of repeating in the last bit. It's like, I want to go, I want to go, I want to go. I have to go. Like, it's great in terms of the story, but for that, we should be like, all right, we know.

Speaker 1

Calm down. All right. Any other sort of burning questions that just came across from... that discussion

Speaker 2

Sorry, you think over a minute too much? It's getting too much. Yeah Yeah, yeah, because um, yeah at uni they were really kind of instilling like a minute to 90 seconds That's a 32 bar cut. Yeah, and that has felt better with like briefs that have come out that have said like I feel like the briefs that I've seen have wanted 90 seconds or minute to 90 seconds like from whatever I've seen in the past year but um but then I feel like in the room quicker, snappier, better. So pretty much everything that's in my book is 90 seconds except three songs out of 30 seconds. Nice. At least you got them ready. Yeah, I can cut more.

Speaker 2

And yeah, I think my thing is like I really want to kind of refine what's in my book and maybe even make separate books for different things because I don't remember I have too much in there and I do not feel comfortable bringing that entire thing. Yeah. Practically speaking, I think Brad said this in the beginning as well like just bring what you would like to sing in that room what you're prepared to sing in that room and you know and I echo what Brad says like if you've got six go-to songs that you know inside out no problems whatsoever audition comes up next week it's like yeah cool I'm ready you go so your post study right so a lot of the study was about gathering repertoire right that's amazing and like covers like different kind of things

Speaker 1

Speaker 2

Speaker 1

yeah once anything goes get its own colours yeah I think because of the era

Speaker 2

I think they're colour-coded into Eros.

Speaker 1

Beautiful! Of course mine's fun. Look at the tabs! Nothing's a hard one to cut.

Speaker 2

Yeah, it kind of...

Speaker 1

And there's a real art to it. There is, yeah. It's like in that era where we really wanted to get all the text. Yeah, so much more time. Cute. Great. I think about vocal qualities as well they're delivering yeah so I'm temporary yeah and it's energetic as well but the energy of spark of creation yeah like driving

Speaker 2

Speaker 1

yeah driving wanting design yeah yeah cute this would be interesting what to cut how'd you go cutting that?

Speaker 5

no digital answer

Speaker 2

Um, good. That was actually one of my favourite songs to sing. Yeah. Yeah, it's a nice show.

Speaker 1

You like a palette?

Speaker 2

Yeah. Nice.

Speaker 7

Yeah, I do like a palette.

Speaker 1

Beautiful. 30, 60 seconds. That's great. Oh wow. Look at that. Oh my goodness. This is a transformation. Beautiful.

Speaker 3

I love, I do love those. Great. Wait, is the tabs built in from the front? No, they're still on. No, it's separate from the Alice's library too. Very nice.

Speaker 2

Is this one ever like a good binder? Oh yes. Because I have been using these.

Speaker 1

It looks pretty good. Is that open? Yeah.

Speaker 2

This one I... It does the job. It does the job. I've been through so many different ones to try to find. I don't know where it isn't too glary and like... Yeah, so there's a whole thing around glare.

Speaker 1

I've been in many rooms where I'm playing and I just have a light like right above me or the sun shining from the window and I can't see anything. There's not much you can do about it.

Speaker 4

I think that's why they got us to tape our music last year. Yeah, it's very important. More than, like, I don't think we ever really brought in folders. It was always taping them.

Speaker 3

Yeah. We got taught that it would tape and never had to.

Speaker 4

Yeah, same. Yeah, it was like every mock audition it was taping them. Yeah, same with us.

Speaker 2

And then towards the end, we used our portfolio as well. I just used my iPads. Yeah, well, we did iPads in first year, I think.

Speaker 1

iPads are still a bit contagious. Yeah, that's... I was like... Sorry? Do people bring them in? Yeah, but they'll ask me if I don't mind. And to be honest, I'm like, I'm a tech head. You know, I love tech. But at the same time, sometimes I don't know how the program's going to operate. And there are some... something nice about seeing two pages in front of me that one so that there are but it's a good discussion because some people ask me but sometimes they use music notes app

Speaker 4

I've tried to download it before

Speaker 2

then it still asks like a webpage

Speaker 1

it's really bad but it'll play back your tune so that's good that's the main good thing about the music notes app it's also sheet music and you can listen to your music do anyone have any songs do you want me to have a look at? any cuts? repertoire, how'd you go?

Speaker 4

i feel like i've like got i'd say i've got three definites but then a bunch of others but i'm like i just don't know if a cut would work or like i just for some of them like i just don't think a cut is interesting of it because i think i generally like lean more towards the like longer big kind of storytelling arc ones and so i think that's where then a cut for me is like I just don't I don't want to do it if I can't do the whole song and yeah so some that I'm like maybe you want to look at that a little bit

Speaker 1

are you I think you can still pick the song yeah and then just bring it in and we'll see if you don't want to do it get rid of it, that's fine but if you're sort of jumping ahead a little bit and going but will it cut work? then I kind of go and you just sort of Because that's just a bit of a fetishism coming in.

Speaker 4

And I think there's probably a lot of it for this last year being told, like, certain songs that you cannot cut.

Speaker 1

And look, some songs might just be a bit weird.

Speaker 4

Yeah.

Speaker 1

You know, you've got to do it and you're like, yeah, that's strange. I feel like one that, like, I'll be doing Ordinary Days is one of my go-tos. But I think that was when I was told, no, you can't cut that. You need the whole story.

Speaker 4

Speaker 5

There you go.

Speaker 4

You definitely can.

Speaker 5

Yeah. But just, like, they want to get the whole story. That's okay. I don't know, you get something.

Speaker 1

The contemporary MT stuff, which I class in KMT, but like absolutely it's got a whole thing, you know, you're trying to communicate, convey deep depth of detail and emotion that sometimes you do cut a small section and it does feel a bit strange and it doesn't really, maybe vocally it's not really doing what you need it to do and sometimes it can leave the panel being like you know, just a bit like, where did that song go or like what did we what did we miss in hearing that cut that said if you can deliver you know stunning storytelling and it's definitely not always about being able to hit a certain note when you do that first audition but if you can if you can hold space hold energy and deliver a shortcut you know and vocally it doesn't do too much no problem

Speaker 3

I think for the shooting the top six, I'm just struggling because something I've wasted off with my brain is that I'm leaning to like all these kind of, like I've got like a quiet thing from Florida, and then it's like the girl who drove away like playing Nancy. I want adding my brother lived in San Francisco and it all kind of feels like that's a great way to describe it and not like I'd rather be me or like but I know also that's not necessarily my style but then I'm like I need to see that I can't Like I've got sister's pickle and that's kind of tricky because I'm not sure how to cut that down. And I also would like some advice on the girl who dragged away cut to make it 16. Oh, 16.

Speaker 1

Yeah, yeah, yeah. Okay. Just consolidate it. Just put a lot of things down there. Did you use your branding and adjectives and stuff to kind of choose your songs? Do you think about how your songs reflect your presentation? This is where Brad's a bit better at, by the way. I'll do my best.

Speaker 3

Honestly, no. Because these ones were already in my rep and I just was like, what ones have I felt like worked that showcased my voice?

Speaker 1

I think we've skipped something. I think we've missed a step, which I'll check in with Brad. But we want you choosing songs that reflect your brand and who you are and what you represent. So that you're not getting tripped up on Will The Cut Work and other songs. Because then you find that they actually connect with what you're there to present. Can I make sense?

Speaker 2

Yeah.

Speaker 1

Anyone else have any thoughts on that?

Speaker 2

Yeah. I went to this guy who was like a brandologist and he did facial analysis in terms of your archetype. It was really expensive. He does look well though. However, he breaks down your face, which is a little bit confronting. But basically when you enter an audition room, the panel has an immediate expectation on what they think that you're going to present as and what kind of character you would play so if you do something that's completely different from what they expected sometimes it can be really like jarring and they can be like oh that's not what i wanted yeah or you can do exactly kind of you know play into it and they're like great yes that's what i expected that she would do and it sounds great or you can you know throw a curveball and like do something like slightly different to your usual and then be pleasantly surprised that it's something like, oh, she can do that as well. I wonder, it looks like she would be doing this kind of character. So for me, it was the ingenue and a very, because my face shape is round and something about round cheeks and stuff, very innocent looking, like eyes, I don't know, whatever he said. Whatever it was. yes tick but yeah it was like you look like you're going to be this like very like naive innocent like virgin type character you are you know like um bell from beauty and the beast type thing but then there's a another hint of like but you look like you've got a wisdom about you like you've been through you know you've been hurt and then you've come out the other end and and i was like I have been cast in alright sorry yeah it's really interesting so that kind of thing I don't know how we got there I forgot what we're talking about so you want to sing stuff that's like similar to you so I've got like if I loved you from Carousel which I feel suits that brand that's in my show real

Speaker 1

it's giving like pure virgin girl how has that how's that kind of gone up against all the other branding stuff would be doing for entity do you notice any correlations is there a question is there in your own journey so as you've been over the three weeks doing your adjectives and branding and you're kind of going like hmm virgin girl is this aligning or like are you kind of like that's over there and i'm just doing it's aligning for sure yeah yeah yeah i'm just curious what your experience is no i think i think all like yeah i think it always kind of aligns me i always feel like i gravitate back to that kind of thing in all aspects of my life even like you know in astrology and things like that like it all just seems to like paint the same picture of like when i do personality quizzes and things like that and when we did the quizzing class like it all it's all connecting

Speaker 2

Speaker 5

yeah because i'm creating more more pictures of our data yeah cool yeah thanks for sharing yeah that's all right right i can uh give the details yeah sure around

Speaker 1

Well, it was a sponsorship deal or something. Yeah. Anyone else have any cuts that they would like me to look over? Or even just the way you've done a cut, like formatting, you know, did you have any questions on that? Like how to draw your lines and cut your bars?

Speaker 4

I remember you mentioned how you're like, oh, like it's always helpful to have the first page, even if you're not doing it. How would you like, how would you cut it? Because it's like, I think we very much last year would use the white box method. And I get how if you just do that, then you get rid of...

Speaker 1

You don't get anything.

Speaker 4

Yeah.

Speaker 1

Do you mind?

Speaker 4

Yeah, yeah, go for it.

Speaker 1

I would. Let's do something in the world. It's like, it can be quite obvious. Yeah. Start. What are you using? Yes. Beautiful. Ooh, you have the new one, do you? Yeah.

Speaker 4

Ah! No, it was because I got it at the start of last year. because they were having like a student deal at Apple and it included the pen as well. Wow. That's great. Lucky. Nice.

Speaker 1

Which iPad is it? It's a 10 inch, right?

Speaker 4

Yeah.

Speaker 1

I used to work for an Apple store and I used to, I got close to getting a job at Apple, but I was doing something else. Anyway. Oh my goodness. Yeah. Anyway, I just, whatever. Oh, so you just, yeah. Whatever. Just cut, you know. Yeah. story and day okay and I try to line up the box with corner of the bar yeah that works that's clear it's like don't play that

Speaker 2

Do you know how there's a list of "do not sing" lists? Like anything Menken? That's a bonus, that list doesn't exist. Anything Menken! I know! No, neither!

Speaker 1

Wait, where did you study? I didn't study.

Speaker 2

Yeah, because if I had my way out, it'd be your Menken. yeah yeah kind of my like I feel like my overall brand is just like princess like this is like over the past like couple of weeks I'm like damn like I feel like some huge Disney fan as well and like that would be the ultimate goal see yeah but then I'm like do I have too many songs that are giving princess and I'm also five foot so like yeah this one's not chosen now in the past I was a a little bit concerned about it. But yeah. Yeah, I'm just like, it's me. So like, why? I was exactly the same. Like, all I wanted to do was like, a lot of these songs I feel are kind of overdone. Like, very first song on the list, Anything Goes. But I'm like, I sing it well, I feel like I feel really confident in it. So I want it on my lips. I don't care actually. Spark of Creation. Another one.

Speaker 1

You don't hear that enough to be honest. I know it's a very common song. But the thing is because the songs become common and popular people move away from them.

Speaker 7

Yeah and I think that you can do it well. Absolutely.

Speaker 1

So then it happens that people actually don't end up singing the songs at all. So yeah. That's a good story. The list thing is whatever. Do you know what I mean? like there is there are lists around the place there is the kind of general rule about Sondheim so general that's the general rule is with Sondheim and who's the other guy? Well, it's not three, but let me, like, kind of, you know, like, what is it? Sondheim, Jason Ronald Brown, and Adam Gattel, who does, like, myths and hymns and stuff, like, Latin Piazza. They're the three composers that are generally encouraged not to bring into an audition. Because generally speaking, the accompaniment is quite difficult. I have girls on time, yeah. What is it?

Speaker 2

Stats of the Palace.

Speaker 1

See, that's hard.

Speaker 2

Yeah.

Speaker 1

I know it in and out. It's also hard to me. Yeah, yeah. But for audition, very hard. Yeah. Because, yeah,

Speaker 4

I think we were just, I mean, we were always talking about it last year in just terms of you want to set yourself up for success. So giving them a song which is like, is a bit chaotic. If they get thrown somehow, then it'll throw you and then it's just, well, I'm not doing my best.

Speaker 2

We also did get told to put a Sondheim song in our book, though, if needed. And, like, obviously, like, Sondheim shows come up, like, so many times just happened. Yeah.

Speaker 1

But that's going back to the composer, like, auditioning with the composer for the musical. That's not necessary. We want to sort of question that as well.

Speaker 5

Like, someone who's a company for a Sondheim audition, they will be on top of it.

Speaker 8

Yeah. Yeah.

Speaker 1

So there's a bit in that. Firstly, it's an interesting song, structurally, for an audition. So many. It's interesting because... Yeah, I don't know, we should see your cut. Yeah, it's a cut. Is that one of your minute and a half ones? Yeah. Yeah. I'm going to make you laugh. So, and of course, yes, you just marked that. Oh, wait, where do you start?

Speaker 2

Actually, I think, hold on, yeah, sorry. I think I realised recently that this one is wrong.

Speaker 1

I think it's right in here. Sondheim, as a composer, stylistically is so broad that you wouldn't generally go into a Sondheim audition and bring a Sondheim song in. It doesn't equal one for one.

Speaker 2

I think because I was updating it, I hadn't stopped it off. I think that this just doesn't exist. I think that's it. So just pretend that that line isn't there and that's the thing that goes through.

Speaker 1

Is everyone clear about the brackets? Yes.

Speaker 3

I always thought, and I'll start with a little detail about the brackets going in, I always thought it was like, and then sometimes once someone put it the other way, and I agree with what you said, the confusion is like, Yeah, again, yeah, we were taught to do it the other way last year. And so... Which way?

Speaker 4

To do it as in, like, you've got the in-bracket and then the cut. But I... Like, yeah, what you said makes more sense.

Speaker 2

I realised, well, I cut that bar and then I put it back in. That's why I forgot to put...

Speaker 5

Ah, show up. Okay.

Speaker 2

So have you done that on my chest and then printed it? Yeah, I did it on the four score. I'm never missing.

Speaker 1

My brain's going to get that from here. It's hard on full score.

Speaker 2

But there are some programs that really like it. I think I got the paid version at some point so I can...

Speaker 1

It does clipping images, but it's really hard.

Speaker 2

I know, that's why I wasn't doing it. You could do it manually, like pop this down and then photocopy it.

Speaker 1

But yeah, with the photocopying, you know, you've got scanning apps in your, like the other Apple modes, or Dropbox has a scanning app, Adobe has a scanning app, Find Scan or something, I don't know, there's some scanning app. You can do, edit your thing and paste your thing and then get the scan and then do it It's up and coming in the next month. And then just make sure it's like black and white and highly saturated in terms of the settings and stuff. Yeah, it's my graphic designer brain coming out. But just make sure it's, so it just sort of shows clearly. Who else has got questions? We just open the floor.

Speaker 3

I think my Nancy cut could be...

Speaker 1

I think you commit and then if you've got to do a new one, just do a new one. But for these wings though, just pencils, whatever. Use pencils at times. Until you're like, yeah, that's my cut.

Speaker 3

Then pen away. So I cut this to be... I think I'd just go... It's pretty long. I would like some advice on... Maybe it's short. I'm not.

Speaker 1

This is one of the shoes which is really annoying. Why is it blurry? Why is it blurry? I'm highly neurotic. I'd be like, "It's fine." And I'd be like... No, it's funny. Why is it bleeding?

Speaker 3

and realize, oh, the coffee I have is a better coffee. It is a tiny bit blurry.

Speaker 1

It could be better. Why is it? But, like, you purchased it, right? Or something, maybe? Question mark? Whatever, whatever. That's fine. That's not the point of time. You know how to crop and everything on course call? Great.

Speaker 3

Maybe I... I didn't consider this as blurry, but it is a smidge. I would validate that. I'm nuts. It's fine. You don't have to, but...

Speaker 5

I can't remember where I was.

Speaker 3

It's just got that little... It does. I know, Dan.

Speaker 5

Yeah, let's talk about it. Turn around, this is good.

Speaker 2

It's almost like when scanning it, it got moved a tiny bit. Just a smidge though, you've got to breathe.

Speaker 1

A smidge to me is like, we've got to fix that smidge.

Speaker 3

Okay, so I will, I will fix that.

Speaker 1

You have to be living in my brain.

Speaker 3

I will be a bit of coffee, because I didn't even think about this. It's just like, it's really fun. And I was like, as if I was blurring music. Google always thinks. Smidge, isn't it? Mmm.

Speaker 1

I'm... I'm nuts. If I can get something just that much better... Okay. You know what I mean? That's just my style. You don't have to read it.

Speaker 4

This is a clear example of, we had the piano conductor score and that's what... Great song.

Speaker 1

And I would use the conductor score for that song. Yeah. It's beautiful.

Speaker 3

Be better. Alright. Yes.

Speaker 1

I think I even had a copy of that. of this or I have a copy of the score and the score is weird as well because it's like kind of like the details are... but it was my choice to take it from that.

Speaker 4

I have the singers music theatre anthology version of it but it's also just like that it's just that little bit blurring. Not really. It's just that little bit blurring. I think it's music notes.

Speaker 1

I know I don't like giving it. You gotta be wary of like when you do the look up the free sheet music or whatever and you hit the like freesheet music.com and that's fine but usually those ones tend to be a little bit blurry. for whatever reason. Anyway, whatever. It's not whatever. Whatever. Alright, now, can I, do you mind if I... I've already been grilled.

Speaker 5

Grilled that.

Speaker 1

I am not a fan of cutting mid-bar. So, I just think it's... Just not good. Can you say why? Can I say why? It's just weird. Yeah, because you've got to draw an extra bar line, And then it's just not clean. So, I see that you want this. I get that. That's fine. But I also think that this would get really wasted in an audition. Like, you barely would be like, what's happening? You know, you just go by. There's just so much more cleanliness in just going ping, ping, ping, and just going cut.

Speaker 3

Don't start a cut at the end of a bar.

Speaker 1

Yeah. Don't cut through a bar.

Speaker 3

Don't cut through a bar. Obviously.

Speaker 1

we can talk more about that but it just gets yeah maybe i haven't done a video or not um but i just see yeah it's just annoying um use a ruler you know you're amazing it's great okay um i'm just gonna give you the the primo right you know if i was auditioning in musical theater um which I'm not because it's crazy. And I have a lot of respect for you. You get a ruler, draw your lines, draw your brackets, why not? The other thing, and maybe I haven't indicated this, and there is a reason, I'm tracking the reason, but the cross I feel needs to go from bottom left to top right, rather than top right to bottom left. Sorry, top left to bottom right. There is a reason, and you do a box, box and I'm like, maybe that wasn't good.

Speaker 3

I saw that in your video about the box and I was like, I've never had this box before.

Speaker 1

I think the box is good because then you can go to the thing. You can draw the box. Yeah. Yeah, I don't think I did.

Speaker 4

I didn't know that was a thing until after watching it and then I was playing around on four score and I was like, that's how you do it. Yeah.

Speaker 3

Now that's a box.

Speaker 1

You could decide not to do the box, but if you don't do the box, sometimes we go, do I play that bar? It's just so much clearer. Is that R in? Yeah. Because it's not quite, it's not technically crossed out, you know? But if the crossings were near your box, we read left or right. There's a reason, I forget what the reason is, but I can't remember. So if you've written the way it starts, you... It's great. It's good. It's good. It's good.

Speaker 3

No, it's not. It's not. It's just having a crisis. It's not. It's not.

Speaker 1

I always find it to be a big right start and end because I'm like... I'm a little friendly, I say, "Cool." But over the years people are like, "Do we just start or not start?" And I'm like, "Whatever, just write 'start' if you want." You know, you're like, "You want to live that life? Just do it." It doesn't take away anything and it also helps your brain grow like...

Speaker 4

I always write a little thank you.

Speaker 1

And a little thank you for smiling face. Thank you. It's a little bit of personality. My brain's always like, I just have a very funny little internal monologue because... ...dialon, tryon. Okay, so it's done. No, this is good. You're amazing.

Speaker 5

No, I don't.

Speaker 1

So you were wondering about how to cut this? I just want to make it shorter.

Speaker 3

I know it's not perfect. I know I could be better. I just want to be shorter.

Speaker 1

yeah maybe what if we started it from yeah where does it go? what's the musical arc of the song? yes and

Speaker 3

apologies I'm trying to frame my sentence

Speaker 1

alright I wanted to say that sometimes I can appear judgemental and critical and not saying that that's what's happening but it's sometimes it's just how I come across but you can I'm not you can phrase it in like made up language that you just made up. I really appreciate it.

Speaker 3

All I'm trying to say is that I have something from this point once before I remember because that was my attempt at doing a shortcut but I thought that was a bad cut because I actually don't know. I think I just thought, not good. Because it goes, and I look, and look, I know this person fits me. And it's like, whoa, where are we? Yeah, yeah, yeah.

Speaker 4

That's why my singing teacher that I've got here in Melbourne, she was the first one I've ever heard say that. She was like, I would never start a cut on the word 'and' or because then it's implying that something's happened before but if you just come in on...

Speaker 2

The music here, it's always happening before. I know. Well it's just... Yeah. I don't know what!

Speaker 3

So, I don't know. Whenever I did sing it from that point, it worked. I think it's fine.

Speaker 1

It's clean.

Speaker 3

I'm just going to go back, put boxes in, go from bottom left to top right. I'm going to have it non-glurry.

Speaker 1

The cool thing here is that all you need is the first page and then the last few pages and you're done. Because the part starts from the beginning. Okay. And, bonus points, if all you need is a chord. Come on! Okay, but yeah. Do you know what I'm saying?

Speaker 3

I do, but me as a period, I don't quite know what that means. Is that it?

Speaker 1

That's a chord, yeah. A chord is one of those played at one time. So you just get... So I'm just going, this is my roll.

Speaker 3

You get... And then...

Speaker 1

And then... And then, say if you didn't want the piano to play, what would you write? Do you remember? Say you wanted just a chord, like that one chord, and then you didn't want the rest of the bar to be played by the pianist. Tacit. Yeah, tacit. Tacit. Because, what I'm saying there is that maybe you'd write the word "tacit" here. The point I'm trying to make is that maybe you want to set a tempo You don't need a whole bar in Because for example, there's a lot that can go wrong in a bar Especially if you come in, you give a new tempo, and then something happens, and you're talking, and then it's post lunch And I'm starting a song, and it's like contemporary M.T. And contemporary M.T. can be a bit vague sometimes You're like, is this how it goes? Or is this how it goes? Is it this quick or that quick? You know, there's so... Anything goes, anything goes, you know It's like, bam, you're in. So there's something that you get power from. I'm just trying to think outside the box, by the way. That's why I'm making these suggestions. You get power from going chord and then you go. Whatever. And then the accompanist comes in the second part. Does that make sense?

Speaker 3

I am going to come up with a ruler. This is just a draft. It doesn't.

Speaker 1

It's the same thing to it. I appreciate it. So I'm just trying to give you like a thought kind of stuff. Because then if you do it on the first bar, you don't have to fuck around with that one bar intro on the previous page. Yes, yes, yes. You just start.

Speaker 3

Yes. So I don't need to write the T word though, right?

Speaker 1

Because I want them to... It's just an option. Just have a think about it.

Speaker 3

So if I wrote that, they'd play that, and they wouldn't...

Speaker 1

Yeah.

Speaker 3

And so I would just...

Speaker 1

Test it.

Speaker 3

And then when do they do it?

Speaker 1

You'd write the word play on the next bar. yeah yeah be nice if you can find the origin copy yeah because there's a lot of melody yeah yeah but I know that she music for yeah yeah little questions and queries and so when I look at you

Speaker 4

we added like a pause there and then i like is that how you know that

Speaker 1

we're at time by the way so if you've got to go

Speaker 2

I have a quick question for you around like the whole final year of beauty. I just couldn't figure out a good rock song, like a not MT related rock song. I was wondering how you could help with that or with like a repertoire idea. Yeah? Yeah. Because I don't really know what works very well. No.

Speaker 1

So I probably need some...

Speaker 2

Some idea of that. Well, I'm not a rock singer. I've seen your lips. Yeah. You're not a rock singer. I'm like a legit soprano singer, but he's not a rock.

Speaker 1

I might have to drill the question again. I'm notoriously bad at thinking of songs, but I'll work with you to help you.

Speaker 2

Try and narrow it down.

Speaker 1

Brad's pretty good at like, "You should sing this!" Totally. But it sort of will just come out, you know what I mean? Although I will say that's not really the goal of entertain, if you can do reps or advice from that perspective. We don't even talk about Shona that much.

Speaker 4

'Cause I feel like I just got to the end of last year and I was like, even now I'm like, I just don't really like so much of the reps that I've got. I'm like, I feel like I need something new, but I just don't like it.

Speaker 1

And if you go for stuff that connects with your brand and who you are and who you're presenting, it just becomes so much more effortless. And granted, yeah, if you're going to audition for We Will Rock You or whatever, you're probably going to come out with a pop rock.

Speaker 2

Yeah, it's just like so many musicals these days are now pop rock. And I do want to do musical theatre. But like, I'm in the right hand.

Speaker 1

You've got to find that diagram of your own brand and your own studio. You can do some kind of stuff. Yes. And then find that rock song that does that. Yes, exactly. There would be stuff out there, especially like "Seven Savies" stuff. Yeah.

Speaker 2

At the moment what I've got is every new thing she does is magic. That's cute. Like the place. It's more like... Yeah, it's not really. That's not what I mean. That's not what I mean. I'm not a star this time. No. You could.

Speaker 1

But hey, you know, it's a great song. Yeah. Billy Joel, you know, Billy Joel doesn't rock but like you could spin like, what's the song? The violin? No, it's violin. Is that the violin? You know? Do you have it? Anyway, I'm just like, oh, I'm in a soprano kind of land, like a nice mix. Kind of cool. And so it sounded a bit rocky. Because you don't have to do like a traditional rock song. You just gotta find how your voice can fit into something and just sort of belt it out a little bit. So there's something you wouldn't generally go to really do, generally, because that's not really rock. But actually, the female voice might actually be cool. Yeah. And it's so cute. Anyways, they have musings. It's such a big question. Sorry, too much. I was thinking you could try to stay away to heaven.

Speaker 2

Because I would like cruise ships. It would be like a female presenting. And as we went down the road Led Zeppelin? Yeah It's a very long song but like the last bit The last song not coming to me It's a bit of a wide song but it's okay It's such a journey It is a journey but the last like it's one of those songs where it like really, by the end It's not a ballad It's a ballad It's a ballad, it's ballad But like it's high, like it's soprano I think that I want ballad though. I think just like from all the briefs I've seen as well, it's like more like up-tempo. No, just like 9 to 5.

Speaker 1

Oh, it's not ballad. It's not in that section. It's not in the town. Anyway, so it's tricky because we get into vocal production versus genre, you know, versus tempo. versus acting so it's just so many and often as seniors we're kind of going we're confusing genre with vocal production and actually you could sing something in a rock way you know or you could find ways to kind of merge the two and actually work out I need something to alter my vocal a little bit or is it about content or is it about showing that I'm going to command a stadium you know is that the yes you said Now, you've written a fermata. Yes.

Speaker 4

And then, that's why I was like, should those two lines, they're like...

Speaker 1

So, I'll... Yeah. So, do you remember what this one means? I can tell.

Speaker 3

Check the back of my book.

Speaker 1

You got your notes?

Speaker 3

The back of the book doesn't have it. Oh, no.

Speaker 1

So, this is like the... I reckon this is a good one. Yeah, no, this one.

Speaker 4

This is a good one.

Speaker 1

This is a good one. You wanna learn one? This is the one! Actually these two ones you wanna know. Does it fit into... For mother. I haven't even taught that. I haven't taught that. Oh there you go. I'm teaching all those. Yeah no, make note of this one. Yeah this is good.

Speaker 5

What can it go into? What section?

Speaker 1

So it's to do with time and rhythm. Ah yes. So you might not have a time rhythm.

Speaker 4

So yeah, probably somewhere in this section.

Speaker 1

It's a symbol though, so... Yeah. Don't have some symbols. Oh my gosh, thank you.

Speaker 5

So what's?

Speaker 1

We'll be doing it for three hours. I've got the lines. And, you know those videos that they get around to the thing that they make? Is that what I'm saying, right? I don't think I do those really well. I should make one of those. I drive people insane, especially when they're waiting to hear stories. Okay, so for Mata, similar videos. Just needs to hold, pause. So you want something to hold? Anything that changes the rhythm or tempo of your song is good currency. Because if you want your song to go quicker, slower, hold, you want to know that. Because you know what, it becomes a good thing. And then these are tram tracks or Sizura as more for women. And that actually means a total cut in the music. So, can you hold that for a second, okay? So, here is Femada. You ready? I'm playing... Fumata? Alt? Yeah? This is tram tracks. If the tram tracks were right at that note. It just means like... If music... This is my analogy, but if music was a ribbon... I've never heard anyone explain it, it's like this, but if it was a rhythm that was just flowing, the fumata is going... This is the music. The fumata is going on the ribbon, it's just holding. But if the caesura on the contract is like cutting ribbon and it just stops and then you've got to get back on the ribbon So how do I know when to get back on the ribbon? Usually Usually there's something that will tell you to continue going and in this case the protocol tells me to keep going So as soon as I hear "Did I three years?" and I'd be like, oh, okay, we can go.

Speaker 3

So it's not a stop, the tram tracks. It's like, it's silence. It's silence and now I'm gonna grigir.

Speaker 1

It's like everything's stopped. Whereas the fermata, everything's paused.

Speaker 2

And then you do need the tram tracks in every, what's called?

Speaker 1

It's every safe. Safe, yeah. In fact, technically, the fermata and the cesura to every stage. Yeah.
So, there's a lot of Yeah, that's what I was gonna ask. I was like, is that the right place to put it?
So, there's a couple of things. So the fermata exists, if you look at, now, there's a lot of music in life, but the fermata will be somewhere in the accompaniment. Because just 'cause the vocal is holding on that note, doesn't mean that the accompaniment's gonna hold on that note. In fact, it's quite common to see a fermata here, I'm like, I don't know, there's not here. So actually they're pausing at different points. So would you write it on both? I'm trying to actually work out what you're after here. Sorry.

Speaker 4

Did I do that on the right page? Or was it supposed to be on the next page? Because they're kind of still juggers. I think it's...

Speaker 1

What could be that I never really knew you? Did I create a dream? Was that what you were?

Speaker 4

Yeah, I was like, I'm just, I was like, why did I see you teacher say that was a good... Oh, I can do that.

Speaker 1

Unless what they're after is, which I even disagree. What could it be that I never really knew you from the da da da da boom? This is from... Did I even... Yeah, I don't like that. Because, first of all, it's not written like that, and then you just stop the train. No worries. And then I just stopped the train and just rode it in front of you.

Speaker 3

how can we write that on that was like i just cut i've done it where i i've i've added for matters before because yeah with like whether we're storytelling or like just like for dramatic effect you want to like hold something for longer yeah um but i haven't done that's why i teach this stuff so you have tools to be like like I feel like I've cut but I've done before I'm like black I never said I don't get out of the

Speaker 4

Speaker 1

Speaker 4

Speaker 2

pause yeah it's just like you're not confined entirely by this I know I do have some freedom

Speaker 1

so that's the video on it so let me just watch back the video to see what you think about it there's actually a section of the matters and um track tracks

Speaker 2

Yeah, I can't remember how it goes right now, but that's... Thank you. You're a big...

Speaker 1

What else? Sorry, I would just do a realist. Yeah. It's really random. Sorry. No, I agree. But you will highlight, and maybe I haven't done a video on highlighting yet, but definitely highlight not the route. That's really important. That's important information. And in fact, I think traditionally the route is a bit earlier. But I never really knew you. Maybe not. Ba da ba da da do, did I create?

Speaker 5

Such a good song.

Speaker 4

Yeah.

Speaker 1

Am I a fan?

Speaker 4

No, it's because I feel like I didn't really do.

Speaker 1

Here we go. Oh yeah.

Speaker 7

It's in it naturally. Oh, no, no, no, no, no. It spawns in that. Yeah.

Speaker 1

So here, for my idea, because the composer wants. And once you got all that, not da,

Speaker 3

So if the fermata wasn't written in for there, but still for the vocalists?

Speaker 1

If that wasn't there and it was like a flute part and the fermata wasn't there, the flautas would sort of keep going. But what I'm saying is notation software will automatically put the fermata where it needs to go. Because everyone has to stop, not just the singer. It all has to stop. If you don't put it somewhere, you run risk of something going. Now, the compadence can see there's a thomata there. It's not the end of the world, right? I can see this thomata, there's a tram tracks here. "Oh, the fools like that" You know, tram tracks. Hold indefinitely, if you want that, and then tram tracks.

Speaker 4

It's because there's a big thought change there.

Speaker 1

Yeah, it's fine to be congested by it. Now, remembering lots of thomata here.

Speaker 3

Okay, okay. Okay. That's an interesting one.

Speaker 1

Sure, not many people for matter of matter. No, I don't have any. Hungry. No one does that. Yeah. Daniel, put up this time.

Speaker 4

I didn't realize how many for matters there are on that last page. There's so many of them. That's my love, I didn't know. I didn't know anything.

Speaker 5

Speaker 1

Do da do da da. Yeah, here's a good one. Ba ba ba ba ba. I just don't wanna hold that. You know what I mean? 'cause I don't want to keep going, 'cause I need to wait. At this point, we're Colobotche, yeah? I'm following the voice and waiting, you know? Which is really important to know, because I'm nice. So Colobotche is very important to communicate your accomplishments. But my, is that right? Yeah, yeah.

Speaker 4

Is that right? 'Cause I hadn't heard the term back phrasing until you mentioned that. 'Cause I think we were always just like, Oh, just like, essentially just like follow me. But it's, so would you say that that bit is like, is back phrasing? No. Or you would need to? Okay.

Speaker 1

So I'll go into it now. It works well and then I'll update the notes. Colour bot share, back phrasing. Two different things. So colour bot share is to follow the voice. For colour it's glue, bot share it's voice. So effectively, I'm waiting for you to go. And I'm singing this song, yeah I'm singing this song. And you need to wait for me till I keep singing this song. But how you keep going, what's meant to be? Now I'm supposed to do a backphrasing, right? And I am singing this song, I am singing this song, I am. I am, I call it actually, I'd wait, I am, but if you said you're back phrasing, you'd be like, I am singing the song, singing the song. It's a good song with him. Hey Kevin. It's called the song. It's called singing the song. Anyway, that's an example, but if you tell an accompanist that you're back phrasing, it's gold. But you need to know you're back phrasing. And usually you know if you're back phrasing if you're singing a different rhythm to what's written in the end. So, most contemporary MT is written as back phrasing, because that's sort of the style. It's like, I need to sort of sing and sing with this a bit behind the beat, and then a bit ahead the beat. And then everything's a bit kind of changing, because I'm sort of thinking on the line sort of stuff. Yeah. You know, rather than... Whatever. You know, that song is... But then, someone, you know, I was playing a Jodie Mitchell song, and I was like, for a singer, and I was like... And I was waiting for her to like go. And she's like, "Oh yeah, I have backgrounds "the shit out of this." And I was like, "Oh, okay." So that means I'm gonna keep steady. Yeah. All of my compliments are gonna come in. Oh no, ghost?

Speaker 2

Ghost, pizza girl?

Speaker 1

No, ghost, come in here anymore. Um. Do you want to let them in? Oh, absolutely, sorry. I don't know if they're out there. He had a message and he was like, "I can see you." Oh, I thought she was very close, come in. Sorry. We're just expecting that to sort of magic in the room. Good work, everyone. Thanks for showing in Sally. Thank you.

Speaker 4

Have you heard of this song before? It's caffeinated from you. I just...

Speaker 5

So it's technically... Your face.

Speaker 9

JL says hello. I was on the phone with him. I was on the phone with him. I was on the phone with him.

Speaker 5

Oh, good. No, no, no, no. I just, I know... I'm going to sit around. I'm sorry. I'm not aware of sometimes I get a problem.

Speaker 1

But I know. I know C.A.s. I'm breaking the finger in the air. As I say. Mmmmm. That's why I'm so surprised. I'm so surprised. Any questions about that? Just let me know.

Speaker 5

I feel like I'm going to be a little bit of a time.

Speaker 1

Sing a tough suit, now, go.

Speaker 10

Nope.

Speaker 7

Damn it!

Speaker 10

May well live.

Speaker 7

It's off! I've had so much questions.

Speaker 10

We've just been gapping.

Speaker 7

How are you?

Speaker 10

Less. Less. Less. Less. Energy. Very nice. Yes. You had me for like Wednesday night.

Speaker 1

Exactly.

Speaker 10

Yes, you chose the right people for this.

Speaker 1

What's everyone doing? So I'm just recording, so... You know. Sorry I started late. So I've had a good housekeeping. so just in future if you get here just feel free to knock or tap on the window or just like or go around. I'm actually surprised you didn't hear us we were not quiet. No I didn't yeah.

Speaker 5

Speaker 1

I was enthralled in I think I heard. You heard to rap right over and surprised me. Really? Yeah. That's very noisy. Yeah. What's news? but also it's pretty informal as long as we can fit you in the room then that's good you need power do you and you have a short lead

Speaker 9

I do. Just chuck it over there. I'll... Yeah. Oh, you can do it.

Speaker 5

Oh, there? No, no, no.

Speaker 1

No, I'm always thinking about it. I'm like, how am I going to get people power? Yeah, just down the side. Um... So we'll kind of talk about... You're like a cat. We'll chat about... Wait. Cat? Yeah. You two, but cat.

Speaker 2

Everyone was cat since your name was pretending.

Speaker 7

I really liked Laura Catterson.

Speaker 5

Yeah, because I was used to it. I didn't do that.

Speaker 1

What's not to me? Who put the cats on there? I just did a cat symbol on yours. Oh! I don't know.

Speaker 5

But then I was just cat. You must have watched that. Someone else did that, I think. How? Camera? I need to like explore.

Speaker 1

I was just clicking around.

Speaker 10

I loved your reactions.

Speaker 1

But then my host got, my host power got rejected after that, so. Oh! Fred revoked it. Not bad. You were just there to the next. I can't troll India. It's a secret about it. Anyway, welcome. Welcome, welcome, welcome. How are you going with your cuts? How are you feeling about the stuff I've uploaded online? Questions, revelations, reflections?

Speaker 2

For me personally, it made me re-think everything that I've seen.

Speaker 5

I don't know.

Speaker 2

We were talking about it outside.

Speaker 7

I think this course has just been like, wow, what am I doing?

Speaker 2

Just a little bit. So for me personally, just with all the information that was given, I was like, you know what?

Speaker 7

I'm going to take this as an opportunity to redefine and refine different songs that I think like I enjoy singing more.

Speaker 1

Yeah, thinking about your brand, thinking about the songs you enjoy singing, what kind of works for you, rather than necessarily going, I need a pop rock song, and I need to, you know, you know. Most songs will cover most shows. And like when I was working with Brad's, with auditions and whatnot, like he'd bring online from next to normal to like nearly every audition. And most of it don't work. But then he had like a little sort of Disney ballad that he really was great at. and a few other tunes, but he only had six songs, that's it.

Speaker 9

It's reinforced a problem that I found in uni as well. A lot of the roles that people tell me, oh, you'd be great for this, are out of my range. Vocal range? Vocal range, yeah. Comfortably sat in baritone land, and a lot of those songs I find either just aren't right for my current playing age or don't interest me musically or stylistically are not something I'm familiar with. I'm in that sort of no man's land of not quite being an advanced enough singer to tackle the bigger songs and the easier songs are just... Yeah. There's a lot going on in that.

Speaker 1

what people have told you, what you're capable of, where and that.

Speaker 9

There's a lot of self-doubt up here, particularly when it comes to singing. It's something that I've been working through a lot over the last, like, two years at this point.

Speaker 1

So singing's a relatively new thing for you in your artistic...

Speaker 9

Yeah, at least like singing training, relatively new. I didn't start doing like formal lessons or formal training until I was, until 2022, actually when I was at school. So, yeah. Nice. Yeah. All right.

Speaker 1

That's good. It's good. Like, be different to me like I've been seeing my whole life and I'm capped, you know, like, like that's what am I going to do? You know, which is not a problem where you work with that, but because it's kind of still fresh, it just means that there's a lot of exploration and newness. Mm-hmm. there's a divide in the sense that we were talking about in the previous group but like what we're told to sing even through like mock auditions and like how some mock auditions get paired as like a acting through song exercise as well so actually really it's not really a mock audition it's more of like an acting through song exercise it's not actually like working on the actual art and technique of auditioning and then of course realistically speaking i feel like that schools tend to kind of go this is your time but like you're not exiting school and then just sort of auditioning straight for XYZ role unless it's hyper specific and it works you know but I think the nature of the industry is that you're going to be working in ensemble at least for the most part or at least that's where the work is and it's general but that's not to say yay or nay to whatever it's just doesn't It's not always those Calcul laws, like, the way the schools kind of make it out to be. You're at this time, you're at that time. Then you've got to wait for that show to come around, and then, like, so many factors. Anyway, other thoughts, feelings?

Speaker 8

I felt like the more I focused on that, like, when I ended up with a bunch of songs that are kind of doing the same thing. But I was like, how much range do I actually need? And I was like, okay, I've got a contemporary, I've got a legit. One pops up. Yeah. Like I don't know, because then you go into the list and there's like, do you need all these 20 songs? I'm like, okay, no, don't need that many. I don't know where the in-between is. Who's, when? Who's saying that? I don't know. What songs when you're in my book and you're like, oh my god, that's so many things.

Speaker 9

I surely can't need every single one of those. We got a list given to us at uni that was exactly that. There was like 11 or 12 different categories. It was, yeah. And an up-tempo and about all of them. Yes, and you've got to be able to sing them to a high enough standard.

Speaker 1

There's a lot in this, right? So, okay, so there's genre, right? And then there's... What else are we talking about? Brains. Damn, I had something. On a casket of brainless.

Speaker 5

Yeah, yeah.

Speaker 1

So, like, the tempo. Tempo, tempo. Type of sound. Yeah, yeah, yeah, thank you. This is why we trimmed the sessions by the way, because I get like loopy. We did like an hour and a half last year, hour and a half, and I was teaching material whereas now it's online, right? And then I have to like hope that I'd say the same thing again, you know, because my brain just doesn't work like that. And then at 9pm would hit and I'd be like, "Damn, that's what happened." Anyway, because in the previous session we were just talking about vocal production as opposed to genre. So, you know, do I need to belt? Do I need to mix? Do I need to do this? Do I need to do that? And I'm talking about this because that's my wheelhouse, you know. Brad is here. He can talk about some other stuff. Brad's not well tonight, by the way. So that's why it's not here. Join the club. Yeah. He's like, I can't move. And I was like, okay. I was like, I'll collect you. And he's like, we'll come to you. We're all in the apartment. That'd be crazy. So when they say, when we get up tempo, what the fuck does that mean? What does that actually mean? Like, is the tempo quick?

Speaker 2

It's up.

Speaker 1

Yeah, like, what is that? It doesn't make sense. Like, it's such a misnomer, up-tempo, because it's kind of like, what you're saying is we don't want something that is legit and has line, and we probably want something that's a bit pattery and a bit character, you know? Or we don't want something with, like, real high volatile, or whatever, energy, you know? on like rock pop thing or whatever but we just get caught in this like ballad uptempo binary and it doesn't make sense because you can produce the vocal production of high energy or whatever in a ballad and you can produce you know line and texture and beautiful legit stuff in an uptempo it doesn't really make sense um again from a basic sense of like you know if you sing if i love to and then after an uptempo you know it's kind of but I feel like I don't know I feel like a lot of the audition briefs I've been seeing lately don't use that language but correct me if I'm wrong I just feel I feel like it's a big thing a lot of the language of briefs now is in the style of the show that's what it's been for almost every audition brief I've looked at this year

Speaker 9

Speaker 1

I feel like since post since COVID it's been like now you film and we'll watch your film and then you're going to kind of come in and do callback stuff yeah so but now we get more in person lately over past several years it's like alright we'll get you to sing but we'll be a little less prescriptive about it and a little less like 16 bar 30 bar and two songs so it's a bit more yeah just like just bring a song bring us come into the room sing a tune and we'll be like great you can sing or it's a a singer song that best represents you. And I fucking hate that so much.

Speaker 9

Speaker 1

So now you've got something to latch onto with what represents you. I'm kind of like, which personality? Which personality? I don't know.

Speaker 2

There's something like that. Sad Deanna, happy Deanna. Crazy Deanna.

Speaker 9

Manipulate Deanna. Customer service Deanna.

Speaker 1

Hi, how are you? Any other thoughts, feelings?

Speaker 7

I think looking at my songs that I have, that I enjoy singing, that's already in my rep book and comparing it to like my adjectives and like brand and kind of like, whoa, what do I do? Or like, yeah, well like I think I just probably need a bit more time to sit and think about whether the songs actually represent like the type of brand that I want to put out there. I think I'm like struggling to fully grasp like what my songs are showing in terms of me as a performer I'm not like the actual character Yeah Yeah, I think that's what I'm struggling with

Speaker 1

So are you trying to make songs work that you already have? Or have you sort of started searching for more songs?

Speaker 7

No, I've kind of just, yeah, I started with trying to make the songs that I have work But now I'm like, no, I need to just go out and explore a few more options. Because also, like, I think I've just been, like, conditioned to put myself in the box that I was always, like, put in. And then, like, I got out of it when I was at, like, Chauvin, because, like, I barely sell, like, any legit stuff. And then I got back to that because it's, like, saved again.

Speaker 1

So is the box legit?

Speaker 7

Yeah. Yeah.

Speaker 1

So what does that mean? What's on your list?

Speaker 7

I've got If I Loved You, Classic, but then actually thinking of my list, there's actually not that many, I put When I Look At You, Scarf Infinite, Gorgeous, and then I also put crossing a bridge. Yeah. But I've got like some other ones, but then now I'm thinking that they're not really like legit. Like full legit. Yeah.

Speaker 5

But that's okay, right?

Speaker 7

Yeah. Yeah, no, that's good. I don't know. I think my brain's just like in shambles. Just right now?

Speaker 1

Or you mean just in this process?

Speaker 7

In this like process. I think I just like need time. Yeah. I heard you. It's good, it's good.

Speaker 6

Yeah, I can just go in like one song to like 25. And then I cut all of them. I go, I hate them. And then I make a new list. Yeah. And then I go back to like two. Yeah.

Speaker 1

So what's your decision process? What's happening there?

Speaker 6

I just don't like any of my material anymore. Okay. And I, yeah, like in, in like full time, I was always labeled like not in a nice way. It's like a pretty girl singing pretty, looking pretty. Ugh. And so then.

Speaker 5

That was. It's really fucked.

Speaker 6

Yeah. So then, oh, and that's like... Pretty good, you guys take that.

Speaker 5

How was I saying? I'm gonna have to look at yourself.

Speaker 6

And so that's the material that I kind of stray towards, but then now I have like a really negative association with that. So now every, like any material I look at, I go, oh, I like that song. Oh, but I don't want to do that because it puts me there. and then I try and like do other material but I'm like oh that's not really me

Speaker 10

maybe it's not Pretty Princess maybe it's just a really cool awesome person singing a song and silly people are perceiving you wrong

Speaker 1

so there is an exercise in choosing the song avoid even knowing how you sounded because that's the branding exercise because we jump ahead and we kind of go how's it going to sound even in previous script they're like I don't want to pick the song I don't know how I'm going to cut it. It's going to be a bad cut. So I may have to just cut, not do the song. But there's a world where you choose a song and you haven't even worked through it. Where you realise that actually you vibe the text and you vibe what it represents. And the sound itself is slightly different. That's just pun parcel that you have to sing. Don't call me out without me. What? You can just be like, I want to sing. I'm going to the shops today. you know, and I'm like, hmm, what do I get, what's up, you know? You're not like, it doesn't soak me, you know? Maybe if you were shopping for clothes or something, but you just buy it and try it out, you know?

Speaker 9

I literally did do that. What's your advice for, like, if a song does have, if it's going to result in a shitty cut? Like, how does one make them moat? Particularly for someone who isn't fluent in sheet music, I don't know whether something's going to work. I can just try and guess. For the most part, what's your advice there if I think it's going to be a shitty cut?

Speaker 1

It sounds like you know what to do. So you try, you'd have a guess, and where are we? Touche. Touche. Yeah. Just try.

Speaker 9

So what I'm hearing is bringing the song. Yeah, totally. I think you guys are quite clever.

Speaker 5

I've sort of skipped like 10 steps.

Speaker 1

I think you've sort of jumped ahead a little bit. You're like, maybe we haven't been clear enough, but like, it's like, I gotta come in and it's gonna be all ready and I need to know all the things. But this is play space. This is sandbox environment. I love that. Minecraft, baby. The first episode of Park and the Reparation. Ah, yeah. That is a base reference. Yeah, I would love that. It's a fair show.

Speaker 5

So...

Speaker 9

I'm getting so many bloopers with Chris Pratt. is absolutely ripping ass on Sarah's lips.

Speaker 1

Sorry, I just wanted to finish my thought. Oh my God. To come to the wake. Ten steps, thank you. You're my second brain today. Two for two. So, usually it's Brad, by the way. If he's not like... I'm a proud. Bring it in. in short, bring it in, bring it in, bring it in choose your pretty songs and sing pretty songs and we'll work through the emotional labour of what they've done to you, or you know what I mean that's causing so many blocks I want to guess where you studied but

Speaker 6

it's around Melbourne

Speaker 1

is it in Adelaide?

Speaker 6

nah, Brisbane wait, did you go to QCD? yes I did I do

Speaker 5

you did

Speaker 6

So you know exactly who said that to me. I did this, I did a separate dance, but I know a lot of people that also did the... I did musical theater. Yeah, you know how to music.

Speaker 9

That's why I'm recording you guys.

Speaker 1

After that.

Speaker 7

I have a question. Go. I'm curious to know your thoughts on people saying that you shouldn't do like mature rep well like I guess for me with like some legit material like it is very like maternal like mother and I'm 21 yeah obviously don't have kids so like

Speaker 1

um I'm not the best with that question yeah um but I can sort of channel Brad and I feel like it'd be like if you do it well and aligns with your brand just think it's not all the time I don't want to say on this but I just don't think it's as like delineated, it's not as big of a deal I don't think they're watching going unless you there's something, like if you feel like this is my personal thing about it you feel like you can't deliver the content because you're just not connecting with it then I'd be like don't do it because it's hot that's hard work but if you can connect with it and sure it's about children and death and you got something to connect with there

Speaker 7

well like all the stuff that we're told about like choosing rep and stuff like that like I think in the school forum you need to be able to talk about something and you need to be able to assess something and I often find that people teaching it are not in the industry as much but not always not always but I just when I break it down logically I'm kind of like it's just a very blanket rule that doesn't really give into nuance it's like don't sing that because when you're 50 you'll sing that song and you'll you know you'll do it the best but right now you must sing this I just feel like it doesn't really make sense but I feel like if people explain why, it's better you know, some people singing I Miss the Mountains from Who's a WotC, it's a bit weird it just doesn't something about their energy or whatever I don't know, they're just not quite connecting with the content and then of course I can watch Queenie Van der Sand sing it and be like, yeah, great, she's mature and amazing and phenomenal, you know in a similar sort of vein what would be your opinion on bringing in like popular or overdone? Yeah. Because I find that a lot of the rep that I'm drawn to because for the most part it is vocally not as difficult for me or it sits right in that sweet like sparkly spot in my range. Like a lot of the songs that I was looking at today, I'm like, yeah, me and every other baritone in existence. And like almost like being in love. I've got Tonight at 8 I've got Who I'd Be and what else what's it fucking called Parade yeah that brings me to another question that I'll address in a moment Jess what can you tell us about songs you shouldn't sing. If it matches your brand, do it. If you want to sing a Disney song, do it. This is not over yet. Sorry. That's what we went into in the previous session. We delved into it because I think you brought up the list, right? Yeah. The list. The don't sing list. Don't sing that. Yeah. Don't sing full pronouns family. They're trying to betray you. Yeah. Maybe if you do like the chicken. Don't sing full pronouns family. So you leave her alone. Meanwhile, there's a lot in this because we're still like early days now, like three weeks in. We do a whole dissertation on what to sing and how to sing it and what's best. I've seen schools bring, like do a list and then ditch the list. You know, Mystery Dan's like, yeah, we don't do a list anymore. You know, it's like, but we had a list and the list is like the songs don't sing, you know, which is a fallacy and silly. And if you want to sing Maybe This Time and you fucking nail Maybe This Time, sing Maybe This Time.

Speaker 1

Speaker 1

Speaker 10

And sometimes if they're in there all day and they're just hearing songs, maybe they don't know, and then they hear a classic and they do it whilst like, oh yes, familiar.

Speaker 1

And because the previous session, kind of made it with jazz, you had Anything Goes. Oh yeah, yeah, she did a jazz set. And that's another Anything Goes is a great show tune. And like most panel members would be like, great, it's a good song. It's well written.

Speaker 9

It gets the toes happening.

Speaker 1

Yeah. And it's good writing. It's good musical writing. Whereas sometimes contemporary MT stuff, again, there's just my opinion, can sometimes be a bit clunky in its composition and in its melodic writing and all the words as well. So for a panel, it's like sometimes a bit contemporary MT. Modern stuff is so hard.

Speaker 5

Really hard. It's so hard.

Speaker 1

Yeah. And generally not designed, no songs are designed to be cut, right? First of all, I said, that's how they want it to be, right? And then we're going to hack away at it. And that's why I said, don't hack, like, don't go crazy cutting it in all sorts of weird places. You are? Oh, yeah.

Speaker 6

What's your reasoning behind doing it? I used to grind myself and, like, getting little bits and matching up all eyes. But I'm like, why am I putting all the effort in?

Speaker 5

I'm just doing all the brains.

Speaker 1

Yeah, yeah. So we do it because it's like it's a real mental game. Yeah. And it becomes a mental venture. So it's like just work on cuts and then upload them to Etsy or something. Do you know what I mean? Like I don't know. Like you want to work. You want to create cuts, just create cuts. And be like, hey, I've got a cut. You want a cut? I'll give you a cut. Here you go. Here's cuts for everyone. But then when it comes down like your brand and like, oh, I actually have to go sing this out and then I have to communicate it to a company. It's like, oh, yeah, it's a bit like I got stuck here and stuck there. And I'm going to talk to them and it's like, okay, we're going to go here and then jump over here. That said though, I don't want to rule it out because some people, and maybe yourself included, absolutely nail it. And I look at it and I go, that's really impressive. But again, it comes back to brand because they have... Now, when I'm cutting a song or when I'm suggesting someone cut a song, I always ask them to look at the text first. Yeah. Like, put it in a Google Doc or whatever and just look at the lyrics because that's going to be your cut. How you start cutting that is going to inform what you do. So if you want to do all the patchwork and stuff, just kind of look. Now, we have said that it doesn't have to do this whole arc thing and it's okay if we miss things. But if you're jumping around, you know, half sentences and stuff, then it's going to be a bit hard to follow. That's why it's nice to do Brad's sort of example of I remember the key, but I don't remember the song. Wizard of Night. You know, going from the key change, you know, towards the end. You just go in. And you don't need to, you just use that chunk because it's already been stitched together the way it is. Now, I know I've got so many open threads at the moment. Just wanted to say there's no list. Yes, just be aware that there are songs that people sing well, really good. You know, so just know that Pool is a great song that can be performed really well, you know, by certain people, you know, in the world. So just, you know, if you're going to be pulled, just make sure you kind of, it works for you and your brand and you're like, no, that's my thing. You know, I do pulled, whatever. On yours, it's like you're still exploring your voice during these early days, so to speak. And so I wouldn't, for you, it would be quite, it would work against you to pick arbitrary songs that no one knows, you know? So you pick what people know because when someone comes in and they're just, I'm just thinking, it's such a spotty specific, But if someone's coming in and they've got like real strong dance, you know, strong acting, whatever. And, you know, and they're a boy. I would just say that. And, you know, they're relatively new to their vocal journey. They sing a song that is like your kind of classic song and dance tune. Like, sometime one. Anyway, whatever. A lot of sort of... All I need now is the girl. Yeah, yeah, yeah, yeah, yeah. Thank you. Thank you, David. that's like a classic like I'm just letting you sing and then they go just sing this one you know and then they come in with it you know and it's actually quite challenging for a song I ever sang it down in school

Speaker 1

yeah that's what I'm saying and then everyone comes in like you know and it's great but if you do it well and it's secure and I'm talking if you did that song well like really well it's great you know set your hip so song is fucking death for an accompanist. I know.

Speaker 9

And I didn't know this until we had someone who wasn't our regular accompanist who we learnt that day is a fucking wizard and can play anything. I gave it to this poor fella, 9 o'clock in the morning, in winter, fingers aren't warm, and he's got to play those first four bars. Poor guy. Who was it? Oh god, no.

Speaker 1

But you usually have Daniel, right?

Speaker 9

No, no, I had a guy named Joseph Beckett. Oh, Joseph. Yeah, yeah.

Speaker 1

Yeah, wizard. Yeah, yeah. He came in last minute for, I think, Lightning Piazza years ago, because they're pianists. I don't know. I think that's pretty good. Spanish. Anyway, just anecdote, but there was a meme going around when we ran Broadway Plug. Someone brought that song in for an open mic, and I'm like, turn it, turn it, turn it. And I false started like three times. and then he's looking back at me and I'm like just go just go and then I will give you that yeah I know I was like just don't look at me don't look sorry there was a meme going around for a while of a compilation of that song of accompanist fucking it up and I was on it and I zoomed right in on my face and I can't find it Yeah, and then at the end of it, JRB's just playing it beautifully. It's death of a song, and I actually went to learn it for a show that I actually had time to learn it. I still couldn't get it right. Anyway, so JRB, Sondheim, Adam Gattel, like Myths and Hymns, Land Piazza, they're three composers that you need to be very clear. They're usually the no-bring composers. That's what schools teach. JRB is so much in the like Zeitgeist or whatever that's like whatever, that's fine, except that song Death song It also depends on the Sondheim or the J.R.B because there's obviously easy songs It's a huge generalisation Now J.R.B is a little bit more informed than Sondheim Sondheim writes for the genre and the context of the world that he's building and for the actors and the music is different he orchestrates it and then the orchestration gets merged down to piano accompaniment and so that's why it's a bit wacky to play because the accompaniment no orchestration is all strange right and the timing can be a bit strange and all sorts of stuff but then you can have like a cute little ditty like anyone can whistle whatever and that's like you know that has its challenges but whatever jrb has real like rock pop billy joel informed accompaniment you know gospel folk whatever you know so and he's commented on what's the musical director forums, people will be like, don't bring JV, and he's like, if you can't play this, he's a bit arrogant, but whatever. He just said, if you can't play my song, it's been out for a long time. It's been out for 25 years. Yeah. So, know the one. Yeah, you know the one. Anyway, I've trailed off, but is there any other questions curious? Does anyone have any cuts they want to show me? Yeah? Alright. Yeah. Yeah.

Speaker 9

No goodness no, I hope you'll see.

Speaker 10

He's discussing the show. Take a look at mine girlfriend.

Speaker 9

Okay. You have to show us what we did earlier. So, my cut is for- can I take a seat? Is it alright if we show entirely?

Speaker 1

Yeah, please. Now, just so you all know, I'm, I'm, I'm, the hat's a bit more in like articulation and it's about editing rather than, um, form of the song.

Speaker 9

So my song is first impressions from first date, um, starting with a two bar intro. Now, this is actually a question for you. Um, I imagine if I were using this in an audition, I've made, I've pretty much cut out the entire, first chorus, which takes up most of the first page, so I imagine I would just not include that page, which then renders those brackets redundant, yes? Sort of.

Speaker 1

Yeah, yeah, true. I'll show you this, though. Yep. That's a good point. If you can justify, friends, all this stuff that I'm giving you, if you can justify it, great. Because these rules, it's not like some sort of gospel thing, You know, you explain to me. So I've just pieced together what I've found works and how I break up the neural processing of how I play in Siree and work out what works and what works with my brain and then find logic for it, do you know what I mean? Whereas a lot of people are just like, let's do it, close. All right, cool.

Speaker 9

And then there's just a massive cut through the middle. Okay, that's right. All of this would have been cut. I just got lazy. It's okay. Oh, it's long.

Speaker 1

But that's your stuff. And then through to the end. Beautiful. Ooh, lovely. That's nice. Very nice. I haven't even done stuff about that.

Speaker 9

No, you put it in your modules. Okay, good. This is the full score, so yeah, it just ends there. Yeah, sure.

Speaker 1

All right. All right. Well done. It'd be like a projector or something. Um, so, we've got some beautiful brackets. Oh no, that's a cracker then. I was like, am I malting? It does happen. Um, all I would do is just cross out these bars. Cross out the ones preceding the start? Yeah, sure. Because you don't want to be blamed, so I'll just cross them out. Um, cross them out. Now there's a couple ways you can do a cross out, but you can just create a box around it and then from bottom left corner to the top right. Just draw a line. Nice and simple. Yeah. And then if you are privy and this way inclined, you can do boxes and all that wonderful stuff. But I'm going to get really into that, but I keep whiting out of your shit. I have to tell them, I think just stop doing quite other stuff. Just keep it simple. Anyway, so yeah, the question was like, do I need the brackets if I'm cutting out this page? No, I think you're all over it. It's going to go to this one. Sometimes you cut a whole page, it can confuse the brain a little bit, because something about the content, but I think this is fine. And then you go here, and then it goes... I'm not lazy, and all of this is cut. Yeah, that's fine. And then you can go down here, which is good. I think that's good. It's easier to see when it's printed out and stuff. and then highlighted individual key signatures, rather than, just my pet head. Just highlight the information, rather than a giant stroke.

Speaker 9

I do have a question about this particular song as well, because the section I come back in is a duet, what's your opinion on having the female vocal line in there as well? Does that throw you off? Oh no. Does that do anything? That's all right.

Speaker 1

The only reason why anything should be showing is like, questions, sentences. If I can see, I can help you. So if I feel like you're just doing something weird, I might flock to the soprano, the female vocal first in trying to help you. But if you know the song, then that's fine. Yeah, I wouldn't go to the trouble of whiting it out.

Speaker 9

Sure. - I think it's too much. If everyone would like to see it. Yeah, sure. I'll do it. Hi, Mom. Yeah. Thank you. All of these pages through the middle that aren't blacked out, pretend that they are. I just got lazy.

Speaker 1

Yeah, so brackets, big fan of brackets facing the music that is to be played. Whenever I see the brackets facing the other way, it just scrambles with my brain because it's like it's facing the direction. And usually a lot of people, subscule the plot, just face the cut in music. But yeah, I want to be able to like read page one, see the bracket, and then I clearly want to be able to go And when you're, and I'll step through this, but when you're walking me through the repertoire I'm like, like registering that, you know, as Okay, there's a cut here, I need to jump in Who are we? You got one?

Speaker 6

What's your opinion? I was like taught to screenshot, like edit it so it just goes through no cuts. Does that make sense?

Speaker 5

Yeah, I also learned it though.

Speaker 6

Yeah, so like you don't have any blacked out bars, you cut them out completely and you edit. And you've reached them. Do you print it and then photocopy it? I do it online and then I print it out.

Speaker 1

What program do you use?

Speaker 6

Oh, whatever I...

Speaker 1

Whatever you got. Yeah. It's a really great one that people were suggesting. free and it makes trimming super easy. Would you... Is that...

Speaker 9

Was it Fourscore Mac Preview GoodNotes PDF Expert? They're the ones I wrote, right? No, it wasn't, because if I remembered it. Did I say it in the video?

Speaker 5

I don't remember.

Speaker 1

I don't edit, sorry.

Speaker 9

There were fireworks in one of the videos. Oh, yeah. Was it really? Yeah, it was fireworks. Yes! Oh my god! You must have done that or something and it started finally...

Speaker 5

That was so weird. I don't even know what it is.

Speaker 1

I was trying to keep it really raw. I just popped it online. Should I keep the gestures? Is it working? Keep it violent.

Speaker 7

Yeah, no, it was fun surprise. Okay, so...

Speaker 1

The short answer... I just haven't seen it being done successfully enough times for me to go, this is a justifying way to do something like that. That said, I can tell when someone's done it, and I'm like, that's very impressive. I'm like, it looks, everything's lighting up. You're grabbing it out. Have you got something? That's great. There is, there's a thing that you could do, you could actually send it on to someone, they can transcribe it and actually have it. like computerized properly as a 16 bar cut.

Speaker 7

Does it throw you off if like you've played that song before? And like you've had like the other section.

Speaker 1

It'll blip for a bit. Yeah. It'll blip. Like if I'm seeing like a real Frankenstein, like a proper, there'll be a part in my brain that's like, I don't know. I mean,

Speaker 7

I don't play piano. But like almost in my brain, Like with the whiteout stuff. Yeah. When I look at that, I'm like, oh my God. Like this just like.

Speaker 1

It's always cold. Sometimes where I see it and I go, yeah, this is good. And there are times I go, whoa, where am I going?

Speaker 9

The very facts that you're saying like, yeah, whitey out's okay. Except when blah, blah, blah. It's me going, so just don't white out then.

Speaker 5

Yeah. I just like some people's brand are highly meticulous and really thorough.

Speaker 1

You know what I'm saying? And they do it And they get away with it And it's okay But then some people are like I did the thing And I'm like Did you do the thing? You killed it You massacre it Did you look over it? Did you get it checked? Like what happened? What happened to that bar? I'm playing it awake now Why is this all wavy?

Speaker 5

Anyway

Speaker 1

Sometimes I look at stuff And I'm like What happened? Just use page one And page two You know? No, no, no, no, no, this is great. This is great, love it. Ah, okay. Interesting. No, no, it's fine, it's great.

Speaker 10

It's good, it's good. I took it away, you go up.

Speaker 1

Okay, I see what you've done here. Sorry, my eye's getting very tired. Um... Check my cranial nerves. I'm so happy to be in the lightest session. Yeah, it's a bit unhinged. And this is after getting all the content online, so I'm not having to teach it. Last year was a hot mess. This is just for fun. It's just like after 8pm I just declined. But then 10pm, I'm up.

Speaker 10

We should make the second session at 10pm! Now it's time here, first session is 6pm to 7pm. We have a party for 3 hours. 10pm! I'll go to bed and I'll come back to you. I don't completely want you. I don't want you to be on the live night. Alright, alright, alright. Let's talk.

Speaker 1

Alright, so... Oh, I love this song. I'm going to be right behind you. Did you use Force Call's ability to like cut stuff? I've used so many things. You've used so many things? This is also part of the cut that I did a long time ago. Oh, right. Because what I'm wondering, by the way. So, okay. So, I see that you've put the time signature back in. Which is lovely. That's very kind of you. Are you saying what I'm saying? Is that what? No. I just wish I could get rid of that light, you know? But you used Force Call's ability. I have learned how to do that. You should be able to insert the symbol.

Speaker 8

It's because I had to make space for it. But I had figured out how to add lines back in so I can do that now. Yeah. So I figured that out last night, so I'll fix that.

Speaker 1

You know, but remember what I said about keeping the first page? Do you remember that? I love this option. What was the point of... Context. So if I can see... If I look at this right now, I go... My brain, I can feel it right now. You know, I've had a big day of auditions. and I'm like, why is the title halfway down? And why is that saved like here? And then why is there a cut common time here? And what key are we in? We're in F, but then this is a G7 sus. I don't quite understand how that works. And I'm like, if I could just see the first page, I download information right away. And I go context, song, world, the whole thing. Even if it's entirely crossed out. Absolutely. Because it's about presentation and queuing context. It's about going, you know, hello, this is what I'm singing. Da, da, da. My name's Kieran. All you do... Exactly. British. Kieran speaks like that every time.

Speaker 5

Hello, my name is Kieran. That's my addition to saying that.

Speaker 1

That's my brand.

Speaker 5

That's what happens when Brad's not here, by the way.

Speaker 1

Michael Caine. Michael Caine, eh? Perfect. I don't know what that accent is. Never done that before in my life. I was like, yeah. So, we've got a very yes and lovely. So you've come to put the sheet music on my thing, right? And your first part of the presentation is actually just going like, hey, you know, I'm singing in the middle of the moment. Da-da-da. Turn the page. It's just a split second of me going, okay, I see what's going on. I do wonder, though, why... Did you put that in? It was already there? That was sus. It feels a bit wrong. that doesn't you understand the harmony anyway why is this indented so guys you need to understand everything with I'm like highly neurotic all right so I will set the bar here and you might go why what's going on but I will point it because I'm curious because I'm like if it doesn't have to be like that I'd be like we can't remember I think it's just because the other ones pushed out because it's pushed out you know also what you get from a first page is you get the time signature yeah not always which means that you wouldn't have to put the time signature into this. So worthwhile considering that because I feel like you're just creating more drama. Cut Common, it's Common Time. It's called Common Time because it's very common time. So we'd understand what it is without putting the time signature in. So I don't think you actually need to put it in. Okay. Alright, nice. Three-by-entry. Nice. Yep. I would put the title at the top, by the way. Same thing with this, by the way. Just that the systems... Do you mind if I close this? Good for it. No idea what that is. Yeah, printer related. Yeah, I'll buy it. I'll buy this. She's quirky. I'll buy it. my question is always like, would I put brackets there? I don't know. I can see clearly that I'm meant to go here. So that makes sense. Yeah. With brackets, and there's like a page turn, would you say to highlight the brackets? So then when you turn the page, you immediately adjust it?

Speaker 7

Speaker 1

Yeah, that'd be super helpful. I'm always on the fence with highlighting brackets. most yeah but it doesn't it doesn't have it yeah you know it's really time I've seen a highlighter gone this is causing issues because the issues when they've kind of like drawn lots of pen and the pilot is really big And look, it's a very specific mind. But I just... It's good. Do you have questions on it? Yeah, is it good? Yeah. Does it work?

Speaker 8

Is this song too hard to bring to an accompaniment? No, no, this is all right. This is all right. It is a challenging song. I did have one audition where it just sort of fell apart. I was like, okay. What happened? Do you remember? I just... I had no idea what they were playing. It sounded so different to anything I'd ever heard. I just sort of put all sorts of stuff at 9am on a day and it just...

Speaker 5

Right. I'd love to see a version of the cut where you don't do the whiteouts and stuff, and you just start from fresh, start from scratch, and just cut the bars and use brackets. I'd just love to see that. I'd just be curious. But we've got highlights of the cleft changes, which is great. Very good. the beginning of the song I think is quite hard. If I can remember correctly. That's probably what I did. And look, some people change the key of the song, and when they do that... Oh, sorry. So... There...

Speaker 1

Speaker 7

So it is like, basically why we are...

Speaker 10

Hello. Hi.

Speaker 1

Thanks for being with me. It's great. Always. There's some people like print out everything and then put like white pieces of paper over the top.

Speaker 2

That's what I did and even when there's an intro and there was supposed to be a melody, I like cut out some breasts. Like some full beat breasts.

Speaker 5

Oh nice.

Speaker 2

I mean it looks like I did that.

Speaker 1

But did you also do the scan?

Speaker 10

Yes, the scan afterwards so you don't have little bits. So you don't copy them off. And then it looked awesome.

Speaker 9

Do you have a copy of them? Yeah, we can have a look.

Speaker 10

Hey, we're going in the room with us today!

Speaker 9

We're going to ruin us, it's crazy because she has purge.

Speaker 10

I'm assuming you'll have tears too and you won't diss subtle shade. That's crazy.

Speaker 1

We're all right. I'm going to go! I'm going to go! You got a good one.

Speaker 4

I just literally stuck on the top of the melody so it's a nice, like, intro.

Speaker 10

Is text good? Because I noticed that on Caelan there was no text and I know that on here and on every single sheet music I've done I say cut or start or end smiley face We got an end

Speaker 9

I believe in the modules you said you don't need to bracket if you're playing through toward the end That's the only reason I didn't have brackets at the end of mine Or an end

Speaker 5

Oh no, that's not changing

Speaker 1

I know the end of the song by the way But if I see this, my impulse, I definitely will play the button. My impulse says that there's more because the brackets are like a tunnel. A portal. They go here and then it comes out. So if I see a bracket at the end, I kind of go, my initial instinct, it's just good to know, right? What the initial kind of impulse is. I'll be like, I know the song. the same way that the song has ended. But it's just good to know. It's good to know what someone will think, you know. Obviously from my perspective. It also, I feel like it makes sense.

If you use the brackets being responsible for cuts rather than the end of something. Start and end is totally up to you. I said in the videos, yeah, no worries. I've been on the fence about that for years. Start and end. Sometimes I'm like, duh. I'm like, I'm also going to start it. And then someone's like, yeah, we're not gonna end there. Then the cut starts, and you want to like, you start later. Yeah, yeah.

Speaker 5

It says start, but I need to join them.

Speaker 1

I don't know, some people get a lot of peace from writing it, and they give them some sort of control.

Speaker 7

Yeah, I don't like, go crazy.

Speaker 1

You wanna write start, that's fine. And look, you know, it'll do a little, it gives you a little pumped as well. You know, when you put the thing in, you're like.

Speaker 7

That's right, I'm gonna start.

Speaker 1

But that's just my cheeky brain. Yeah, yeah. I'm just like, you're a bro.

Speaker 10

If I drew butterflies.

Speaker 1

And I'm like, if you I like, it's cute when I see a smiley face and Yeah. But it's a rant. Don't, don't Don't just No, I always just smile. I'm gonna put it.

Speaker 5

I'm gonna put it. I'm gonna show them the high control. I'm gonna be like, this is a beautiful part around the top corner.

Speaker 1

Yeah, this is just around the corner.

Speaker 2

So, what was the other? Um, it's just like the rest of that melody.

Speaker 1

So, uh, tomato, sliver, flip it, and then?

Speaker 2

Yeah, just so it's like a clean intro. But I don't know, would that be confusing? 'Cause you're like, what? It's pretty.

Speaker 1

You know, it's that adage that Brad will talk about as well. Like, does it raise more questions? Oh Brad. Yeah. And you'll talk about that in terms of watching a song, watching a show. Is it going to raise more questions? And I'm being super finicky. If you brought this in, I'd be like, great, no worries. Yeah, yeah, yeah. But there's also a world where you just cross out the lyrics. And just leave the melody.

Speaker 2

And would the accompanist play the melody or like, no they're not. They'll be like growing or starting.

Speaker 1

The accompanist will only play what is in these saves. Yeah, so they're worth. Second to third stage. They will not play the melody. Unless you're lost and you're nice and they're giving you something. And then you're not taking it. And you're like, I'm giving it to you. And they're just... They're not accepting your gift. They're not accepting at all. And I'm like... No, and? Okay. Alright. Alright. I'm not singing.

Speaker 7

And all the end of the episode, when you just say, "Oh, I'm not singing this, but I'll join in."

Speaker 1

I just think it's nice to cross out the lyric, for sure, because so many times I'll sing them. You'll be waiting for me, they'll be like, "I'm gonna sing it." Yeah, but not even about that, it's actually about the talking part. It's about the communication part. It's about when you go to the accompanist, which you always do, always do. I know you know that, but always do that. Someone tries to run away from me, I'm like, "Come back, we must talk." "Mind my eye." "Mind my eye." "Mind my eye." "Do you want this to go exactly..." "While we're on a topic, I know..." "Um, sorry, sorry, sorry, I'll just finish this." "You taped it correctly, well done." "Good job, proud of you." "Front and back, so then..." "Front and back." "Everybody needs a winner." "Front and then back of that one." "Because it doesn't expose the tape." "The amount of people who do it the opposite." That's it. The pages get stuck together and then I skip pages and then they look at me weirdly. Don't let your account this weirdly by the way. They just don't do that. Why would someone do that? Is this a person? They would do it when they're out of stress. And they're like, "Help!" Or it's like, "What are you doing?" And it's like, "You do you." Play it robot. You would be stressed too. Exactly. But my philosophy is I'll make this work. We do make this work. We're both going to make this work. We're both making it work. We're both making it work together. Sorry, I want to finish this train of thought. You cross out the lyric. The amount of people who don't cross out the lyric and we spend time, they go, I'm going to do this and this and this and this. And then I go, hold on. Wait, are you singing this bit? And they go, no, no, no. So again, it's just done.

Speaker 2

Do you have to, can you just cross it out with a sharpie or would I need to wind it out? Nah. Because I was doing old school.

Speaker 1

I was using scissors. Just get a ruler. Because I can't. Strike the lyrics out. Striking the lyrics out. Just like crossing the lyrics out. Is enough to tell me that you will not sing those bits. And that's enough. Sorry.

Speaker 10

I'll write a paragraph above it. Not singing this bit. I hope you understand. Too bad. Too bad, not full. Are you just going to plant yourself?

Speaker 1

I'm going to practice. You know, you go! You go! You know what I mean? Yeah, yeah. Yup. That's why the phrase is that, that's why the phrase ends in those two bars. You know, because we only want two bars of tension.

Speaker 2

And then, yeah, that is true, that is true.

Speaker 1

Anyway, and you've got the tenacity for it, so just do it. Just do it. You know what I mean? Do you have a question?

Speaker 2

Oh no, I'm just observing. You sure? Yeah. Perfect.

Speaker 1

Which Deanna is here today. Yeah.

Speaker 6

It's like, the programs I've used have like disconnected from where I uploaded files, so there's like stuff missing. If I deleted it out of my photo, my camera roll and stuff, it's gone out of the sheet music. When you actually just cut the bit and then where's the bit going?

Speaker 5

Speaker 6

It's like when I remember the sheet music there's big holes because I've obviously cleared it out of my files and stuff Okay It's okay

Speaker 1

It's all great work, it seems really sad

Speaker 10

So hopefully

Speaker 1

you can get to a place where you can print your sheet music as a PDF for nearly everything, there should barely be excuse why you can't do that, why you can't have like a little one for one copy of your sheet music that you haven't had to photocopy again, unless you've got it on the road somewhere and you can't find the copy ever. You know, store, hold on to your music, say no when you're doing the music notes, whatever. And then bonus points, if you can have a 16 bar folder, 32 bar folder, you store cleanly, beautifully in all your original finals, you have your beautiful 16 barcats, you have your 32, because why not? You know, maybe there's a world, especially cruise ship stuff, you know, you present with a 16 and then you've got a particular 32 because they're running really well for time.

Speaker 4

Because there's either five people there or five.

Speaker 1

It's really random. I'm like, have you guys promoted this at all?

Speaker 9

Before we leave as well, I would love to share another exploit I found for getting free shoot music. It does involve a one-time payment, but if you get a scribe subscription and then pause it for 12 weeks, you can just unpause it and the initial payment still stays. It continues indefinitely. If you unpause it, download the music as a PDF to print it and then re-pause it. It updates when your next billing date is. So it just goes and goes and goes.

Speaker 10

When's your next billing date?

Speaker 9

Not till October the 30th I think. That's quite a hack. There's also Scribe Downloads. Which I use.

Speaker 5

There is Scribe Download. True. There's what?

Speaker 8

There's what? Download it so you just look up Scribe Download. Yeah, that's the sign is all.

Speaker 9

I was looking for the music sheet guy. The sheet music guy at YouTube. Like how do you get this called?

Speaker 5

I think this is hard to chat.

Speaker 9

Yeah, we were a GBA for iOS fella.

Speaker 1

Yeah, eventually, but obviously I was the older than you I believe, so I was in front of a big tower and using that to download the arms and just playing Pokemon.

Speaker 7

If people knew that, I think I still have access to it, but I have access to a Google Drive with a bunch of full scores on it as well for shows.

Speaker 9

I've got my robot in there as well, I added to a chat.

Speaker 10

I had to scroll, it was really hard to find. I found it at 17 and I was like...

Speaker 9

Like I said, I don't know what's in there. I can't guarantee the quality.

Speaker 10

There wasn't much. I just had the stuff in there. There was something.

Speaker 1

Do you guys know Michael Libby?

Speaker 10

Huh?

Speaker 1

Michael Libby? No. He's like an American guy that has this giant dropbox. Like, big, big, big, big. And he would like sell the shit music. And apparently there's these stories of like, you put the money in my foil or something and it's sent to him or something. This is very unusual.

Speaker 10

Oh, he believes in it.

Speaker 1

It's very strange, getting hyper-pulled into that folder. And it's got current stuff, very current.

Anyway, we need to wrap up. Does that sound good?
